R T ABBOTT CONSTRUCTION INC.

Roy Abbott has always set ever-higher goals, and he gives credit to his years spent in the Army's 82nd airborne regiment that gave him the tools to achieve them. "I loved the challenge of the military," Abbott says. "Their organizational skills are second to none. It taught me to always strive for the highest standards, that success is a product of constant communication and planning and to always stay on schedule. These concepts became the foundation of my company's organization." From his early days in construction as a trench digger and framer, he quickly moved up the ranks in custom home design/build to senior project manager. But he knew the only way he could apply his on-site education—and to remain on target of his goal for perfection in custom homebuilding—was to own his own company. In 1998, armed with hard-earned experience and a plan, Roy Abbott became R.T. Abbott Construction. Now, ever expanding throughout the neighborhoods of Southern California from the coast to the mountains, R.T. Abbott Construction excels in creating custom homes for discerning clients. Whether a rare-wood Arts and Crafts gem nestled in the hills, a mountaintop limestone-clad contemporary or a beach estate, Roy personally ensures each project is built to the highest standard. As Roy says, "I find out my client's expectations and make sure I exceed them while always keeping the project on budget and on time." His goal of becoming one of the top builders in California is in sight.

"In the creation of luxury homes, the result must always be perfection without compromise. That will always be my goal."

Q+A

What led you to your current profession?

Coming from an engineering family, I was surrounded by the tools of the trade and fascinated by how things were put together. Construction felt like the obvious choice.

What are you working on next?

Our current group of projects covers an exciting cross-section of styles, sizes and locations, including a hilltop project pushing the engineering envelope.

What are your favorite types of styles to work on and why?

My favorite work is building custom homes. Each home and style presents its own challenges, and the satisfaction is in overcoming each challenge as they arise.

FEATURES: Showcasing a façade of floor-to-ceiling windows and doors, clad by a zinc stucco surround and detailed throughout by walnut flooring, doors and paneling, this hilltop gem—highlighted by an infinity pool—is illuminated by natural daylight.

FEATURES: Overlooking a coastal canyon, this quintessential Italianate estate, nestled on 25 acres with its own Piazza, exudes old European charm yet is only a year old.

FEATURES: Creating the perfect frame for the Pacific Ocean, the master suite deck of this beach estate is a perfect melding of hand-hewn beams, travertine flooring, pilasters and ornamental ironwork.

FEATURES: This Tuscan retreat, complete with a basement, wine cellar and theater, is faced entirely in dimensional stone and supported by precast eaves, corbels and balustrades.

FEATURES: The refined opulence of this indoor/outdoor master bedroom perched above Los Angeles is the culmination of split-faced Portuguese limestone, paired with an Ipe hardwood ceiling and Terrazzo.
