To Whom It May Concern:

I have recently moved into my new home in Dana Point that was completed by R. T. Abbott Construction, Inc. The entire construction experience went very smoothly, especially considering some of the complexities of building a large house at the beach on a relatively small lot. Both Scott Fisher and Roy Abbott teamed together to make sure that all of our desires were met. From their involvement early in the design process, through the bidding out and negotiation with the subcontractors, to the final completion, the project went as well as could be expected. They obviously took a lot of pride in the construction of my house and it shows in the final product. All of the subcontract trades were bid out to assure that I got the best prices but they also made sure that only highly qualified contractors would work on the project. This assurance of quality was especially important to me as I expect to live in this house a long time. The communication throughout the project was also exceptional as there were no surprises during the two year construction period.

As a contractor myself I am very critical of other contractors, but I can tell you that R.T. Abbott is a very professional company that you can count on to build a quality product at a fair price.

Thank you, Scott and Roy, for a job well done.

Sincerely,
