Dear Roy,

I am writing to tell you how very pleased and thankful Azie and I are to have had you build our new home. Both the end-product and the process to get there were first rate. Based on this experience, this is what I believe sets you apart from others in your field. You were always perfectly professional. By this, I mean you were always prepared in advance, solicitous of our views and concerns, accessible and approachable, eager to be helpful, honest and forthcoming, and timely in following up. Further, it is clear that you are an expert in the ins and outs of building custom homes, and that expertise meant that not only were you not forced to rely on the advice of subcontractors, who may be less professional than you, you were in a position to prevent or quickly correct mistakes. In fact, the respect engendered by your professionalism and expertise could be seen consistently in how your subcontractors and our architect addressed you and your team. I could go on, but suffice to say that you are my first call for any future building need, whether for ourselves or our friends.

We wish you continued success.

Sincerely,

David Shladovsky
